Constitutional Propositions

We have 17 Constitutional Propositions on the ballot for the November 4th election and Early Voting began on October 20th with the usual low turnout that these Constitutional Elections usually have.

The first week of early voting yielded a pretty low turnout as anticipated. A review of the Harris County website on election returns indicates 79,647 votes were cast with 5,191 of those being mail ballots returned. The second week of early voting increased turnout slightly, bringing the County total to 212,104, an 8.6% turnout. Only 7,111 of the 10,436 mail ballots sent out were returned. Statewide a total of 1,331,276 people voted in person and by mail for a turnout of 7.2%. Election Day's vote count will add to that total.

A number of groups and entities have issued recommendations on whether to support or oppose the proposed amendments, often based on their specific agendas or ideals. The propositions can impact you directly and you should be doing your own research to decide how you will vote on each of them. A number of these items involve property tax exemptions and others create dedicated funds for specific purposes such as funding programs at Texas State Technical College or direct funding for dementia research. There is also a proposition regarding denying bail for certain felony offenses.

The Texas Legislative Council has provided a condensed analysis that breaks down the bills and gives the pros and cons here.

If you are waiting on election day to vote and need to find a voting center near you, go here.

New Legislation

School District Cell Phone Policy

As a result of House Bill 1481 from the 89th Session of the Texas Legislature, all Texas school districts must develop, adopt, and implement a policy prohibiting the use of personal communication devices by students on school property during the instructional part of the school day. This new law requires school district to have a written policy in place no later than September 18, 2025. Districts may use differing approaches that may include a ban on possession, restricting use, or designating secure storage. The statute requires the policy include a disciplinary plan for violations and policies must be in place by September 18, 2025.

Exceptions to this new law are able to be made in order for districts to accommodate a student's individualized education plan or other documented needs that require such a device.

Be sure and research your school district's policy and requirements.

The Texas Education Agency has a guide to implementation which can be found here:

Little Cypress Creek Maintenance Project Repairing Major Erosion in Little Cypress Creek Watershed

HCFCID Project ID: L104-00-00-X008

Location: Spring Cypress & Telge Road, Harris County Precinct 3

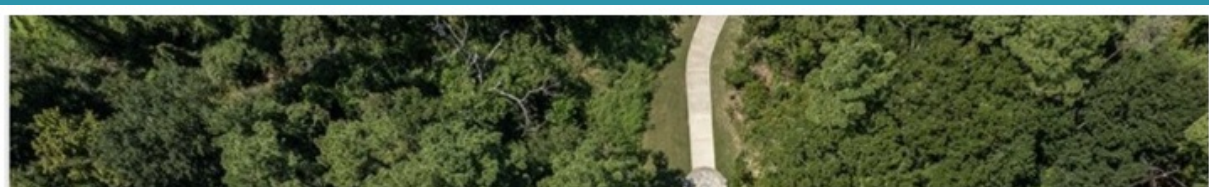

The Harris County Flood Control District is beginning a vital maintenance project to stabilize and repair a deteriorated tributary of Little Cypress Creek in the Fairwood neighborhood.

Why This Project Matters

Over time, the downstream portion of this channel has experienced severe erosion and damage. A former drop structure collapsed after Hurricane Harvey, exposing utilities and water lines and weakening the channel banks. Since then, erosion on both sides has continued to worsen, affecting the efficiency and capabilities of the channel.

Planned Work

Planned work includes:

- Stabilizing eroded channel banks
- Repairing areas of collapse and failure
- Restoring the channel to improve function and safety

Crews will access the site from Spring Cypress Road through a wooded area.

Because a trail and pedestrian bridge cross the tributary, trail access in this area will be temporarily closed during construction. Heavy excavation and equipment make this closure necessary for public safety.

Timeline:

Work begins this fall and is expected to take about six months, with estimated completion in Q1 2026.

This project is part of the Flood Control District's increased investment in maintenance to preserve and strengthen Cypress Creek flood control infrastructure.

Visit hcfcd.org/maintenance to learn more about our maintenance programs.

Before You Turn Your Heater On

The days are getting shorter, and the air is finally starting to turn brisk. Are you already tempted to flip the switch on your heater to burn off the chill? Wait! Hold on! Before you fill your home with toasty air, a little preparation can save you headaches, improve efficiency, and most importantly, keep your family safe this fall and winter.

Here is a short checklist of what to do inside your home before turning on your heater for the first time this season.

1. Change Your HVAC Filter: This is probably the easiest and most important step. Your air filter has been collecting dust and debris for a while. A dirty filter restricts airflow, forcing your heating system to work harder, which wastes energy and can cause your unit to overheat or break down.
2. Test Your Safety Alarms: When your heating system fires up, especially gas furnaces, there is a small risk of fire or carbon monoxide (CO) leaks. Test your smoke and carbon monoxide detectors. Replace the batteries and ensure they are all working correctly. If any alarms are over 8-10 years old, it's a good time to replace them entirely.
3. Unblock Vents and Registers: Over the summer, you may have rearranged furniture or put up curtains that are now blocking your vents. A blocked vent prevents warm air from circulating efficiently and can cause a pressure build-up in your ductwork. Walk through every room and make sure all supply vents and return air registers are completely unobstructed.
4. Do a Test Run and Check for Smells: Before the really cold weather hits, turn on your heater for a quick test. Set your thermostat to "heat" and raise the temperature higher than your current room temperature. Let the system run for about 15-20 minutes. Do you detect a slight burning or dusty smell? This is normal during the first start-up, as any settled dust on the heat exchanger burns off. This should disappear quickly.
5. Check Your Thermostat: Make sure your thermostat is switched from "cool" (or "off") to "heat". If you have a programmable or smart thermostat, double-check that your heating schedule is set correctly for the season and your lifestyle.

Taking these few simple steps now will ensure your heating system operates safely and efficiently all winter long, keeping you comfortable and potentially lowering your energy bills.

BATTERIES!

Carbon Monoxide
(CO)

The Silent Killer

CO is a toxic, colorless, odorless, tasteless gas.
Watch out for these CO warnings!

- Have your furnace serviced by a qualified professional to check for leaks.
- Never leave a car running in a garage, even with open doors.
- Never run a generator in the home or garage. Opening doors and windows or using fans will NOT prevent CO build-up in the house.
- When running a generator outdoors, keep it away from open windows.
- Never burn charcoal in homes or garages.
- Never install or service combustion appliances without proper knowledge and skills.
- Never use a gas range, oven, or dryer for heating the home.
- Never put foil on the bottom of a gas oven because it interferes with combustion.
- If the audible trouble signal sounds, check for low batteries. If the battery is low, replace it.
- If it still sounds, call 9-1-1. Immediately move to a fresh air location outdoors or by an open window or door. Make sure everyone inside the home is accounted for.
- Stay outside until the fire department arrives.

Symptoms of CO poisoning

The initial symptoms of CO poisoning are similar to the flu (but without the fever); they include:

- Headache
- Fatigue
- Shortness of breath
- Nausea
- Dizziness
- If you suspect that you are experiencing CO poisoning, get fresh air immediately. Leave the house and call 9-1-1 from a neighbor's home or cell phone. You could lose consciousness and die from CO poisoning if you stay in the home.

Get a CO Detector

Like working smoke detectors, every home with any gas appliance must have a CO detector on each floor. <https://www.nfpa.org/Public-Education/Staying-safe/Safety-equipment/Carbon-monoxide>

CFISD CTE programs prepare students for real world

Oct. 24, 2025—CFISD provides a large range of Career and Technical Education (CTE) programs that equip students with essential skills and industry-recognized certifications, giving students opportunities and a head start for their future careers.

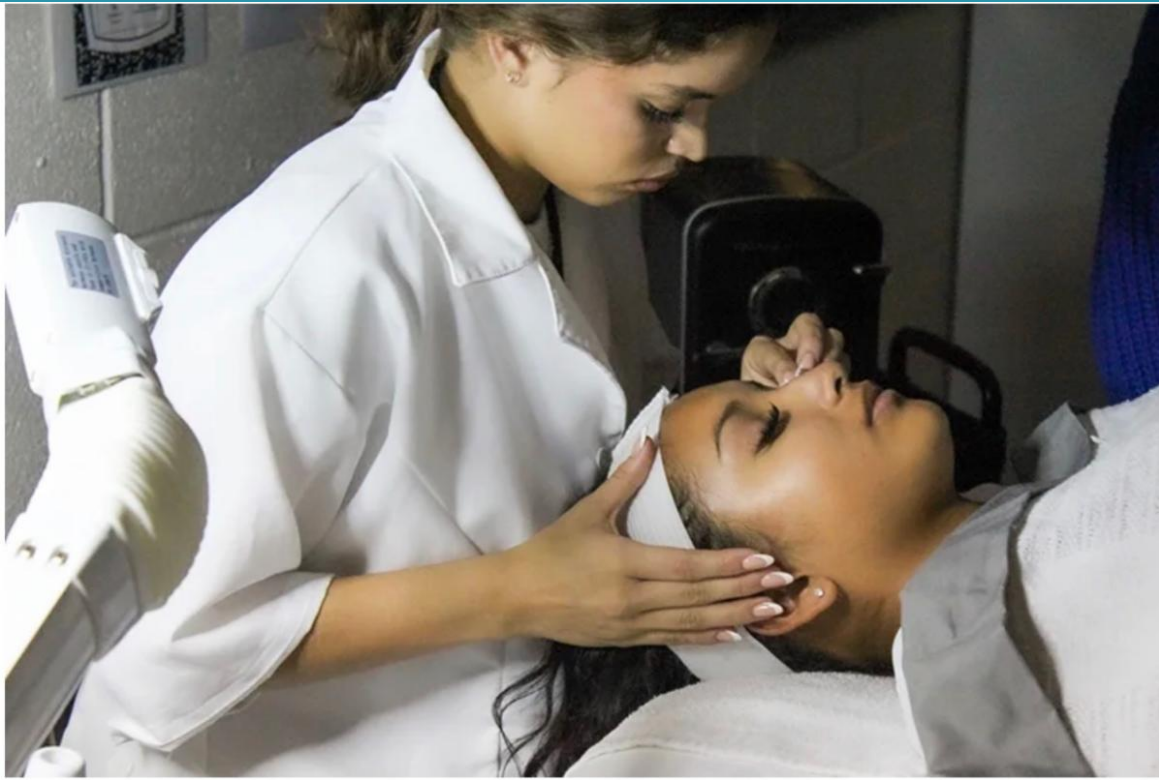

The district has approximately 500 CTE teachers who serve more than 40,000 high school and middle school students. CFISD offers a diverse range of CTE courses across various categories, including business and industry, public services and STEM. Students have access to numerous industry certification opportunities, with training and preparation provided at little to no cost.

“I’m CTE certified in Microsoft Office Specialist,” said Cypress Park High School senior Joel Baires-Canales. “I had to take three exams and score at least a 700 on Word Expert, Excel and PowerPoint. I plan on using the certificate to enter the business field in the future.” Some popular programs among students include culinary, cosmetology, business, marketing and finance. The courses provide content and instruction that, outside of certifications, help students prepare for life after high school.

“Most of our assignments and activities are real-world based,” said Veronica Diaz, Cypress Park teacher who oversees several computer science courses. “In Computer Science III
